missionary stories and the formation of the syriac churches analyzes the hagiographic traditions of seven missionary saints in the syriac heritage during late antiquity thomas addai mari john of ephesus simeon of beth arsham jacob baradaeus and ahudemme jean nicole mellon saint laurent studies a body of legends about the missionaries' voyages in the syrian orient to illustrate their shared symbols and motifs revealing how these texts encapsulated the concerns of the communities that produced them she draws attention to the role of hagiography as a malleable genre that was well suited for the idealized presentation of the beginnings of christian communities hagiographers through their reworking of missionary themes asserted autonomy orthodoxy and apostolicity for their individual civic and monastic communities positioning themselves in relationship to the rulers of their empires and to competing forms of christianity saint laurent argues that missionary hagiography is an important and neglected source for understanding the development of the east and west syriac ecclesiastical bodies the syrian orthodox church and the church of the east given that many of these syriac speaking churches remain today in the middle east and india with diaspora communities in europe and north america this work opens the door for further study of the role of saints and stories as symbolic links between ancient and modern traditions in this volume elif hilal karaman examines the lives of ephesian women in their historical and social contexts considering in particular their roles as mothers wives teachers and individuals in the private and public spheres she presents greco roman and early christian sources relevant to ephesus and relating to women including more than 300 ephesian inscriptions and analyses them comparatively by doing this she illuminates the impact of early christianity upon the roles of women the evidence presented demonstrates the extent to which early christian authors utilized greco roman cultural elements to construct a social background for the nascent christian communities for whom they wrote elif hilal karaman's work thus advocates for the interpretation of early christian texts in conversation with local archaeological and literary evidence in order to develop more nuanced understandings of the social and historical contexts of these important works in this study michael immendorfer examines the relationship between the new testament letter to the ephesians and the ancient city of ephesus which had the great artemis as its goddess he seeks to make a contribution to the discussion on the extent to which conclusions can be drawn concerning the local historical explanation of new testament epistles by viewing the latter through the lens of greco roman cultic practices thus the contents of ephesians are compared with the abundantly available archaeological and epigraphical sources of the asia minor metropolis this endeavour reveals that the letter contains numerous unequivocal references to the cult of artemis a nexus suggesting that the author was very familiar with the historical background of ancient ephesus and contextualised his letter accordingly for the intended readers who lived in this particular cultic environment highly respected new testament scholar craig keener is known for his meticulous and comprehensive research this commentary on acts his magnum opus may be the largest and most thoroughly documented acts commentary available useful not only for the study of acts but also early christianity this work sets acts in its first century context in this volume the third of four keener continues his detailed exegesis of acts utilizing an unparalleled range of ancient sources and offering a wealth of fresh insights this magisterial commentary will be an invaluable resource for new testament professors and students pastors acts scholars and libraries a thorough treatment of the importance of these cities within the history of the church as ramsay lays out the history and theology that formed these cities as well as their importance in the spiritual development of our spiritual lives
