a sharp and poignant snapshot of the crises of youth from the acclaimed author of the catcher in the rye everything everybody does is so i don t know not wrong or even mean or even stupid necessarily but just so tiny and meaningless and sad making and the worst part is if you go bohemian or something crazy like that you re conforming just as much only in a different way first published in the new yorker as two sequential stories franny and zooey offer a dual portrait of the two youngest members of j d salinger s fictional glass family salinger s masterpiece guardian intended for teachers and students of american literature this book is the first comprehensive analysis of romantic tendencies in postmodernist american fiction the book challenges the opinion expressed in the columbia history of the american novel 1991 and propagated by many influential scholars that the mainstream of postmodernist fiction is represented by the disjunctive and nihilistic work of such writers as Kathy Acker, Donald Barthelme, and Robert Coover. Professor Alsen disagrees; he contends that this kind of fiction is not read and taught much outside an isolated but powerful circle in the academic community. It is the two-part thesis of Professor Alsen's book that the mainstream of postmodernist fiction consists of the widely read work of the Nobel Prize laureates Saul Bellow and Toni Morrison and other similar writers and that this mainstream fiction is essentially romantic to support his argument. Professor Alsen analyzes representative novels by Saul Bellow, J. D. Salinger, Norman Mailer, Flannery O'Connor, John Updike, Kurt Vonnegut, Philip Roth, Thomas Pynchon, Toni Morrison, the later John Barth, Alice Walker, William Kennedy, and Paul Auster. Professor Alsen demonstrates that the traits which distinguish the fiction of the romantic postmodernists from the fiction of their disjunctive and nihilist colleagues include a vision of life that is a form of philosophical idealism, an organic view of art, modes of storytelling that are reminiscent of the nineteenth-century romance, and such themes as the nature of sin or evil, the negative effects of technology on the soul, and the quest for transcendence.

Franny and Zooey are two stories about a New York family called Glass. The first two entries of What Is to Be, a narrative series, are about two of the Glass offspring.

Gale Study Guides to Great Literature is a unique reference line composed of three series: Literary Masters, Literary Masterpieces, and Literary Topics. Convenient, comprehensive, and targeted toward current coursework, these guides place authors, titles, and topics into context for high school and college students as well as general researchers. Each Literary Masters volume introduces a significant author, covering basic biographical information. The related Literary Masterpieces volume explores a major title from this author's works in detail. Finally, the Literary Topics volume places the author and work within a relevant literary movement or genre.

Each volume offers

this book surveys and discusses the entire body of Salinger's work and presents extensive bibliographical information.

This study hopes to contribute to a better understanding of Salinger's later fiction by concentrating on those aspects of its form and meaning that have not yet been adequately explained. It will offer close readings of the six Glass stories as self-contained accounts; it will describe the way in which the shape of the stories has changed over the years; it will explain the major religious and aesthetic ideas mentioned by the Glasses; and it will present an interpretation of the overall meaning of the Glass series as a composite novel. Preface.
